V. MANAGEMENT OF DATA PROTECTION INCIDENTS

A data protection incident is any case in which an unauthorized person has access to personal data or the data is destroyed, lost, or changed, such as e.g. the database is destroyed or the data medium on which data was stored is lost.

In the event of a data protection incident, we evaluate its effects and risks (what data is affected, in what quantity, whether it can be replaced, etc.) and immediately take the necessary steps to eliminate it. If we cannot eliminate the risks, we will report the incident to the data protection authority within 72 hours of becoming aware of the incident, and we will publish information about it on our website. We also keep records of data protection incidents in the detail required by law.

VI. Your rights

Withdrawal of consent You have the right to withdraw your already given consent at any time, without reason, at the following contact details:

by e-mail: action@gyovai.net

After withdrawing the consent, the personal data of the person concerned will not be processed any further. Withdrawal of consent does not affect the legality of data processing prior to it.

Right of access: You can request information on whether we process your personal data at our contact details provided in point I at any time, and if so, you can request further information regarding the following:

the purposes and legal basis of the data management, your personal data managed by us, their categories, the addressees or categories of addressees (including the data processors we use) to whom we have communicated or will communicate the personal data (in the case of forwarding the data to a third country, guarantees for the adequate protection of data), the legal basis for data transfer, the duration of data storage, the data subject's right to request from the data controller the correction, deletion or restriction of processing of personal data concerning him and to object to the processing of such personal data, to the NAIH the addressee's right to submit a complaint, the source of the data, the circumstances and effects of a possible data protection incident and the measures taken to prevent it.

Along with the information, we also provide you with a copy of your personal data that we have managed. The first copy is free of charge, but we are entitled to charge a reasonable fee based on our administrative costs for each additional copy. We will inform you of the amount in advance.

Right to rectification and additions: If you notice that any of your personal data is incorrect, incorrect or incomplete, please notify us of the correct or additional data as soon as possible so that we can complete the corrections or additions.

Right to erasure ("the right to be forgotten"): You have the right to request the erasure of your personal data. We would like to inform you that we can refuse data deletion, especially if we need or may need the data in order to fulfill a legal obligation or assert a claim.

Withdrawal of consent to data management entails the deletion of the data, provided that there is no more important reason for which the deletion cannot be completed.

There is also room for deletion if

a) the data are no longer needed for the original purpose of data management;

b) the processing of the data is illegal;

c) we are required to delete it by European Union or national legislation.

Right to restriction of data processing: During the process of data processing, you may request the restriction of data processing if (i) you dispute the accuracy of the personal data, in which case the restriction applies to the period that allows us to verify the accuracy of the personal data; (ii) the data processing is illegal, but you object to the deletion of the data and instead request the restriction of its use; (iii) we no longer need the personal data for the purposes of data management, but you require them to submit, enforce or defend legal claims.

In case of restriction, we only store the data, we do not perform any other operations on it, unless you consent to the further operations or they are necessary for the protection of your own or a third party's rights or in the public interest.
In the case of restrictions on data management, we will inform you in advance of its release.
Right to data portability: With regard to the data management included in this information sheet, you may request that your personal data provided to us be transferred to you or to another person designated by you in a well-known and easy-to-use electronic format.

VII. Submitting and answering requests.
If possible, please send your inquiry in writing to the e-mail address action@gyovai.net in case of asserting your rights above. In the letter, please also provide your personal identification data and your mailing address. If we have doubts about your identity or the data provided is insufficient for identification, we are entitled to request additional identification data from you.
We will fulfill your request within 1 month. If necessary, we are entitled to extend this deadline by another 2 months, which we will send you with reasoned information.
We fulfill well-founded requests free of charge. At the same time, if the request is obviously unfounded or – especially given its repetitive nature – excessive, we are entitled to charge a reasonable fee or even to refuse to take action based on the request.
We inform all those to whom we communicated the relevant data about the correction, deletion, or restriction of the data, unless this proves to be impossible or requires a disproportionately large effort. At your request, we will inform you about who and what the recipients are, whom we have informed in accordance with the above.

VIII. Compensation, damages
If we cause damage to you or others by unlawful handling of your personal data or unsafe handling of data, you or the person suffering the damage have the right to enforce it against us.
If your privacy rights are violated in this context, you are entitled to claim damages.
We would like to inform you that we are not obligated to pay compensation or damages, if the damage was demonstrably caused by an irreparable external cause outside the scope of data management, or if the damage is caused by your intentional or grossly negligent behavior.

IX. Claim method
1. Contacting the data controller
If you consider that we are not acting lawfully when handling your personal data, we ask that you first communicate your comment or request to us, as the data controller, at one of our contact details indicated in point I, so that we can process and manage your comment as quickly and efficiently as possible.
2. Addressing and filing a complaint with the data protection authority
In case of illegal data processing, you have the right to contact the National Data Protection and Freedom of Information Authority (NAIH) and initiate its procedure.
